

In The Presence Of Change

N. Carnell Robinson, chair of the North Carolina Black Leadership Caucus, and Mayor Pro Tem of Dunn, NC, was invited to attend a recent North Carolina gathering to visit with presidential candidate, Senator Barack Obama.

Senator Obama, of Illinois, appeared at Fayetteville Technical Community College on Wednesday, March 19. Sen. Obama spoke on the war in Iraq and his plans for bringing stability to the area and bringing American troops home.

According to Chairman Robinson, he found Sen. Obama's proposed plans for a possible withdrawal of American troops from Iraq over a 16-month time frame, to be a thoughtful response to protecting American interests in the region and allowing for political progress on the part of the Iraqi government in establishing a stable government in Iraq.
